- We will collect, process, and store your personal or special category data only for delivery, assessment, and award of the qualification/course you have chosen to undertake.
- We will not pass or sell your personal and special category data to any other person or organisation outside of the administration and award of the qualification/training of your choice.

- We offer you the ability to apply for a reasonable adjustment should you have a disability, learning need, or medical condition that may affect your ability to undertake the qualification's assessment. The data collected for this purpose is called special category data. We will only collect and process this special category data when provided by you and for recording and awarding reasonable adjustments for the qualification/course you are undertaking when you provide the data.
- We will not use such personal and special category data for any purpose other than the delivery, assessment, administration, and quality assurance of the qualification/course undertaken and for maintaining appropriate records in line with Regulatory Body requirements.
- During course delivery, personal and special category data are collected within course paperwork/documentation.
- We will transfer the data to our online administration system, and all records will be maintained and disposed of in line with our Data Protection Policy.
- Where a certificate is issued by an awarding body, usually, in the case of a regulated qualification, we will be required to securely transfer your personal data to the awarding body for them to issue your certificate. We will only use data for this purpose and anonymised statistics requested by the Regulatory Bodies.
- We are required to respond to information requests from Regulatory Bodies. Should your data be required to be transferred to the Regulatory Body, we will do so in line with its Data Protection Policy. We will use the same process if we are legally required to transfer data as part of a legal investigation to a legal authority.
